At present, all equipment has to be moved across the buildings before and after each practice. I would like to see the choir be able to obtain additional handbell octives, additional chime octave and other complementary instruments.	Diligent participation, commitment and contribution from the financial committee and congregation. The faithfulness of the people involved in the music ministry.	As mentioned, a specific space provided for practice and storage of musical instruments and equipment.	Music plays such an important role in worship. Preparation needs and order and proper storage and order in an effort to make things run as smoothly as possible for God's Glory.	A facility to show the Children how important music is to worship and how important it is that they learn about instruments and singing and see things around them to encourage the growth and understanding of music and the importance of it in the church setting. Not just in the sanctuary but in a learning environment (such as a music room).	Please consider how important music is to our worship and how we need to encourage the growth of our music department in being able to have access to a place where music is what the space is all about. Not only for practice but creating an environment for learning and having the equipment and facilities available for MUSIC in every aspect needed. Thank you.

15	WRITTEN				Worship in the congregation									9	9	8	Providing a more convenient process of storing music supplies - book case limited. Space for music limited. Need for dressing room for choir, robes and storage.	This seems pretty adequate from my perspective in the audience.	It seems to me that additional room needs to be added - between hallway and sanctuary. I understand there has been debate over the engineering of much such space, but I bet there are new ideas to be considered.	A convenient room for putting on and taking off robes or costumes for events such as Christmas and Easter, Organize music and materials. Some of the seasonal decorations could be stored at the present closet with holds the pastor's robes and assorted items. Communion items are stored there too. Managed well in small space. In a hurry people bump into each other.

Yes, there is the worship areas, which are used currently for rehearsals, but they are inadequate for availability, acoustics, and storage. Having this resource will only further enhance the preparation and artistry of worship. Plain and simple: vibrant, well-rehearsed music, which creates the atmosphere of worship, will only aid making our church more vibrant. Also, having a space set aside for our children to rehearse their music will not only make it exciting for them: it will also provide more opportunities to expand our music ministry and create space to create new ensembles for our students and young adults as well. It will also give our Drama participants a place to rehearse as well, and there are a lot of young people interested in getting involved. Music and the Arts is such an important part of this church, and providing a place to create this art will aid this church in creating those disciples that we strive to train for the future.	There is no rehearsal space other than the worship spaces. It is hard to rehearse the choir in the Sanctuary, because the choir members cannot hear each other as well as they should. The handbell choir has no rehearsal space, so their equipment needs to be build and taken down constantly, causing wear and tear on the equipment. There are only 2 options for their storage: either a small closet in the Worship Center, in which everything has to literally be crammed inside it, or the utilities closet in the Sanctuary, in which the equipment is subjected to humidity. It would be nice to have a rehearsal space where the handbells can rehearse and keep the equipment in one place. A rehearsal space would be good for all ensembles, so that there is always a space available. For example, the brass ensemble usually plays in the Sanctuary, but they rarely get to rehearse in that space, because there is usually something happening in there when they can. So they have to find some place adequate enough for this. A classroom is not an option, and the Worship Center's acoustics are not as good as the Sanctuary. A rehearsal space specifically for music	There is no rehearsal space other than the worship spaces. A rehearsal space specifically for music	Again, rehearsal space. It will give the kids a place to rehearse, and they will not have to take up space in the children's wing, which, unfortunately, has been an issue of conflict in the past.	I greatly appreciate having the opportunity to voice these opinions. We have too many talented people in this congregation to not have some kind of area dedicated to the arts and music.

A dedicated bell room so we don't have to tear down each and every time we practice. This is the only church we've been in that doesn't have dedicated music facilities.	The music program brings people into the church. It is a big reason we joined OUMC. It can/does create a worshipful atmosphere on Sunday. Communicating the value of the music ministry to the church in general can be seen in the facilities dedicated to the music program. Currently, it's a little on the sad side.	The chairs in the choir loft are great! That's the one thing going for the music facilities. (Thanks) But rehearsal space is sadly lacking. Rehearsing the choir in the sanctuary on Wed isn't terrible, but robing in the hall and having the music in a closet just makes those giving of their time and talents every week feel a bit underappreciated. And the bell choir is even worse. Each week not only do we have to put away the bells (we should), but we have to tear down the tables, the stands, the music folders, the foam....drag them to a closet and find a place to stack them. Then each week they have to be dragged back out and set up. Dedicated space would be so helpful.	Didn't I just answer this question?	I'm not familiar enough with this to comment. However, I know the child do sing and play handbells as well. They could benefit from the same dedicated space.	I appreciate the opportunity to share my thoughts. Thank you for asking.

We need a dedicated rehearsal space for bells, chimes, and choirs with room to organize music and robes. The space should be large enough to allow bell tables to remain set up. It takes a tremendous amount of time, and energy to constantly tear down and set up bells, chimes, and children's piano, chairs, folders. This room should be connected to the worship pastors office and the back entrances to the choir and bell lofts. The space should include white boards and staff boards for music education for both children, teens, and adults, as well as large caldenars to allow groups to keep tack of music planning.		Please see above. Without space, I don't believe children's music will grow or music for teens will be developed.	Same question as 7	The children's music doesn't have a regular home base, so whatever happens with the adult music space, the children need to be included.	We need music facilities, not just a choir loft on Sunday.

The Hybergers do an amazing job, considering their accomplishments with limited space, imagine the ease of not having to constantly set up and move rehearsal space,	Monitors for the choir would be great, if the choir is expected to stay up front during the service. They should be able to hear from a speaker, not an echo.
